Estimating the costs to scale-up a postpartum family planning intervention in Rwanda

Benjamin Picillo, MPH

USAID Maternal and Child Survival Program

16 November 2018

Motivation for analysis

- Inform discussions on the scale-up of PFP in Rwanda
- Understand the key cost drivers for scaling up an integrated PFP training and mentorship intervention
 - Based on MCSP support to Government of Rwanda (GOR) to implement the PFP training and mentorship model
- Estimate the costs for the GOR to sustainably maintain intervention coverage

Costed Activities from Intervention

Preparatory

- Provider skill assessment and trainer identification
- District orientations
- Training model procurement

Training of Trainers

- National TOT (with follow-up)
- Refresher TOT

Provider Training

- FP counseling skills (follow-up and refreshers every 2y)
- PFP clinical skills (follow-up and refreshers every 2y)

Mentor Capacity Building

- Capacity building of selected mentors to serve as district-based mentors

Mentorship

- Bi-monthly visits during first 1-2 quarters of implementation
- Average 8 mentor visits per year after first year
- Regular mentor oversight visits

To scale and maintain the PFP intervention to all 30 districts in Rwanda, it would cost the GOR:

USD 0.10 / RWF 90 per capita for the first year to introduce the intervention

USD 0.05/ RWF 40 per capita per year to maintain the intervention

Which represents <0.5% of domestic government expenditures on health

Proportion of pregnant women initiating a PFP method before discharge increased from 1% to 47% over two years in initial 10 districts

More to come later today!

- Methodological considerations for costing
- More details on cost estimates
- How to use costing and output/outcome data from interentions for advocacy
